As you view these samples, please keep in mind:

- 1) Each specie has marked differences in grain pattern and color. Even in wood milled from the same tree, you will see differences in grain pattern and color from piece to piece. Ask your cabinet specialist to review specie characteristics with you.
- 2) Artisans hand apply each finish, which naturally gives rise to variation. Each door profile accepts stains and glazes in its own way. Ask your cabinet specialist to review finish characteristics with you.
- 3) Because wood ages, these samples may not represent the color of newly-produced cabinets.

The variations described in 1 and 2 are more evident in a sample door than a color chip. In a room of cabinetry, the variations blend to create a pleasing effect.
